“ When my sister was in Mrs. Wood's readiness class, she once told Mrs. Wood "My dad is going to school to be an antique!" when in fact he was going to college to be a mechanic! Mrs. Wood also sent my sister to the principal's office because she used black crayon on the new classroom carpet that year. Both of these stories Mrs. Wood would mention to me from time to time when I was in her 5th grade class. She laughed about them often. Later, I went back and "taught" her class for a day when I was in Future Educators of America. Mrs. Wood was still telling the stories of having my sister in her class. She also told all of her classes about her children, Angie and Andrew. She used to give us clothes that Angie had outgrown. Mrs. Wood was one of the best teachers I ever had, and I have wondered about her through the years, wanting to reach out and say hello. I have missed her and talking to her, she helped me through some of the hardest days of my life. Angie and Andrew, my heart and prayers go out to you and your families. I will forever remember your mom, the sweetest teacher I ever had who truly cared about her students. RIP Mrs. Wood.

“ I came to know Janet through our sons who were college roommates! We actually only spent a few times together watching our sons play football; but we remained friends thru all these years. I'm so glad we met! She is a beautiful spirit who loves her God and served Him many years. She is a sweet Mom, Grandmother, Great Grandmother, Sister and friend! She will be missed, but we share a joy knowing she is home!
