My Dearest Lou Anne,

From the moment I met you at camp I instantly I felt connected to you. Our friendship quickly flourished and we became close friends in such a short time.

Lou Anne, you were such a teacher of life to so many, but especially to me. The things that I have learned from you shall be with me always. I am the woman today because of your compassion, wisdom, love, and most of all your incredible gift of friendship. You will always be in my heart and I shall never forget you or all of the things you taught me. Your never ending smile and your kindness to all who knew you will be a memory that will live with me forever.

I have so many happy memories that we have created together. Those memories sustain me now as I grieve your passing. I am so fortunate to have called you my friend and I will miss you all of the days of my life.

Rest well my friend.

Love, Yvonne

“ Lou Anne was a close friend all through high school, although we were in different grades. She lent me her dress for my prom that I loved with a beautiful wide skirt, blue and pink flowers. I visited her at Purdue where she tried to get me to come, but I was a country girl and the campus was overwhelming to me. After college we wrote Christmas cards every year to keep track of where we were. Several years ago when I went home for my high school reunion, she was visiting her dad and we met in Warsaw. It was there that the famed motorcycle picture was taken. She was so vibrant and we talked for hours about where people were and what had become of our high school friends. We communicated via public media and had fond memories of growing up in a small town, and Tippy Valley especially marching in band. My condolences to her whole family as she was loved greatly.

“ I first met Lou Anne seven years ago in a running club. We were encouraged to run together as we ran at the same pace - slow. :) I'm so glad for that chance meeting as we quickly became friends. The following year we trained for a triathlon together and have since shared many other wonderful memories from camping trips to craft nights to pottery classes. I learned so much about how I want to live life from Lou Anne. I will love and miss her always.

Lou Anne and I worked for the same company, she in Indiana and I in Connecticut. I first met her in West Lafayette when she was teaching a course on developing corporate training material. After a subsequent reorganization she became my education manager and in almost no time my friend. I called her my super achiever because no matter how long it took her, she would always do her absolute best to meet the deadline. She was a teacher in the fullest sense of the word, sharing her wonder and commitment to celebrate life to the fullest. I learned about the family's memory Christmas tree where every year a new ornament, with detailed explanation attached, was made to celebrate a memory from the past year. She told me about the leprechaun pranks they played on each other. Even when taking chemo, she continued to go all out for Halloween. I admired her sense of and devotion to her husband and children. I could go on and on about how she taught me to live life. She did not use cancer as a legitimate excuse to take it easy. Instead, she tackled it with her usual determination and research, teaching us all along the way in detailed reports how this is to be done. She reached out to her sisters battling cancer in exercise groups and flew out west many times between treatments to camps for survivors. She had a bucket list and she continued chipping away on it, sleeping in a haunted castle, reviewing her marriage vows in Arizona, sailing off the coast of New England. And then as she faced the Hospice decision, she developed guidelines to help us select the best care. To the end, she was my super achiever and my teacher.

Dear Dave, Corey, and Cody,

I am so sorry for your incredible loss. I wish I had just the right words to say to ease your pain.

Words seem inadequate to express the sadness Jerry and I feel about Lou Anne's passing. As you grieve know that we are remembering you and honoring the memory of Lou Anne who gave so much to so many. She was one of the most amazing women I have ever known.

Our hearts go out to you in your time of sorrow.

Wishing you peace to bring comfort, courage to face the days ahead and loving memories to forever hold in your hearts.

Love, Yvonne and Jerry
