“ Uncle Chuck was a blessing to our family. My Dad, Edison, is listed in the obituary as his half brother. Technically that's correct. They did not have the same father and Dad referred to him as his half brother. He was 14 when Chuck was born so he didn't have that much time with Chuck before being drafted. But being a brother or an uncle is more about the love in the relationship than parentage. Dad eventually referred to Chuck as his brother and me and my sisters referred to him as Uncle Chuck. When there is as much love as we all shared there are no halves.
