“ Grandma

As you once told me when i was a little girl time is such a meaningless thing . As to much time or to little time may cause conflict on a situation , To never let it get in the way of living your life and allow your self to be able to love and live as freely and timeless as i could and to never the little nor the big moments slip by me . As a little girl i never understood what you had meant , but over the years as i grew , i began to clearly understand what you meant ... the day we are born we are crying and the day we leave we are cried for .but the time in between is what celebrated .Thank you grandma for teaching me one of most valuable things i could have ever learned. Our moments we shared shall always last and our memories shall never fade .

And Our love will last forever because forever never ends .

Rest among the angels for you are always watching over me

LOVE FOREVER

“ Grandma Nancy... The brief time I got to know you seems like years ago... which it maybe, although to me it seems like yesterday. Being 8, 9 and 10 years old, in the blistering heat mowing your lawn, for a simple batch of grandma cookies. It was worth it then, and to be honest it still is. Also the times sitting in your living room eating Owens chicken. These are memories that could possibility never be taken from me. I wish I could go back and make more time, to know you. I know if you got to know me now you'd be proud.
Rest In Peace, gone but won't be forgotten.
Love Brandon.

“ What I knew of my Grandma Nancy was that she loved each of her kids and grandkids very much. May she continue to live in heaven with God forever. RIP Grandma Nancy.
