“ We r so broken hearted. We are still wondering why did someone tell us he already passed. That was the hardest I had to tell my husband Charlie after I just had him home from the nursing home. Had been trying to search for hi. So he could cone see Charlie and me. We had so much fun with himand his family. We were l'm the field with him. The horses turned and started running our way. He said get ur hands up. Man if those horses didn't stop. It was unreal. Loved the peacocks. At one time I had a huge face in my living room with feathers. Doris made the best food. All the kids got along. Wish this had turned out differently. R.I.P. Satch Satch u Fly High on that Mountain. We Love u. Charlie and Cyndie.
